

What the fuck!?!?

This is the Homepage of the DOGMATECH projekt. DOGMATECH startet in 2005 as an minimal tech projekt and a live performance at Schilleroper Bar in Hamburg. While messing around with the Game Boy programmms Nanoloop and LSDJ i found out quickly how harsh this machine can sound! It was exciting and pure fun to explore my jungle and hardcore roots with such a minimalistic device. What do you need more than a pulswave Bass and a noisy rythm to be happy? ;-P So I released some rougher tracks online and suddenly someone wrote at vorc.org that DOGMATECH is an hardcore chiptune project. The logical consequence was the decision to put the minimal stuff in another project: Nanolo (because I use NL2 a lot. It will find it`s home at www.nanolo.info if I find the time to create a site. The new aims for DOGMATECH are now to create an Album with a lot of noisy experiments with Commodore 64s Cirquit Bending, FX, DIY stuff and of course Casio keyboards and massive abuse of the Game Boy! Apart from that I want to improve the live show with ill stuff and FX! I just love performing and have a good time kicking a party crowd with dirty beats and noise for their pleasure! Especially on Freepartys because I love the spirit of that movement. On this page I am going to release Live gig dates Tracks, photos and videos from Gigs and put some technical and may be also politkal informations online. Why political? Because there are some things pissing me off and DOGMATECH provides a way to get heard. But don`t worry, the main reason for this projekt is fun, so this Won`t take to much place. Now have fun and explore the Page. It will be groing constantly! I may add a german version in the Future and maybe even a french. So stay tuned and check back often.